Democratic-Northwest. AND HENRY COUNTY NEWS.

The boom seems to be very much out of gear in its progress department.

Somewhere Mrs. Langtry forgot or neglected to come over to Freddy Gebhardt's marriage.

The Pollard-Breckinridge trial at Washington recalls the biblical judgment—"Let him who is without sin cast the first stone."

John Bell really thinks that the Monroe doctrine is a very ornamental he would better prepare for a big surprise.

The republican who think they can elect a majority of the next House by bunco methods are doomed to a rule awakening.

The strength of the provisional government of Hawaii is shown by its fear of being overthrown by 100 Canadians.

Gao. Goud says he and all the big railroad men favor pooling. The public suspected as much when it compelled the adoption of a law against pooling.

Reading what the newspapers have said about it has doubtless added to the regret felt by Secretary Gresham at having been wounded at all.

Walter Wellman is knocking out the brilliant advertising record of the last Perry Arctic expedition before he gets fairly started for the north pole.

Our immigration officials should be on the alert to prevent the European anarchists who are now being driven from pillar to post coming to America. We have no use for them.

The silver bluff of the republican Senators was promptly called by the democrats, just as their tariff bluff will be a little later on. Aoe-high hands don't "go" now.

Senator Hill is receiving some very dangerous praise from republican papers, but he probably knows just what value to put upon it as well as any man living.

The senate-revised tariff bill destroys a lot of carefully prepared republican argument about creating a deficit; it will produce a surplus of more than $30,000,000.

"The man with two brains" is attracting attention as a museum freak in New York. He might get a permanent engagement with several republican Senators who haven't even got one brain.

KANSAS is always never-lapse head of the other States. A Kansas girl has applied to the courts to lose an injunction to prevent the man she loves marrying another girl. There are lots of softer snafus than the judge who will pass on that application holds.

Ex-President Harrison says he has learned to have very high respect for the late Senator Stanford. Now somebody will be asking if the engagement, at big pay, to lecture at Stanford University was the teacher.

EVERY good democrat should be willing to allow the democrats in Congress to decide what legislation is at this time expedient. Every democratic criticism of the action or non-action of democrats in Congress furnishes ammunition to be used against the party.

The clown of the House—Boutelle, of Maine—is satisfied with Secretary Herbert's answer to the House resolution asking him to give his authority for having placed naval vessels under the order of Commissioner Blount when that gentleman was sent to Hawaii. Nor was he with Speaker Crisp's ruling, but the answer, like the ruling, "goes."

Gov. Flower knows how to be epigrammatic. Witness his remarks concerning the election murders at Troy—"The bottom of this affair must be reached, no matter who suffers by the exposure." That's what honest men call the right sort of talk at the right time, and it's only a continuation of a habit long ago contracted by Gov. Flower.

Some mothers' children are always well dressed and other observant mothers wonder how it can be afforded on a small income. We'll let you into the secret, hoping you will profit by it. These managing mothers have the knack of making over garments and odds and ends, which are made to look new by coloring over with Magic Dyes, at expense of only a few cents and a little easy work, for it is easy to dye with Magic Dyes. Use a darker dye than the goods you wish to color over, follow the simple directions faithfully and you can not fail to be pleased with the result. Escorts Always at Hand.
In London, when a lady wearing a tiny silver star meets a man with a silver star, she will say: "How d'ye do, brother?" and he replies: "How d'ye do, sister?" Either is then privileged to extend any courtesy or ask any favor of the other, without the act of being misapprehended. If, for example, she desires an escort to the theater, she can ask a man to go with her without his thinking she is expressing a too flattering preference for his society. If he wishes her companionship on any occasion, she accepts it in the spirit it is offered—"The Order of the Silver Star," says the Evening Sun, arises out of the necessities of a social civilization, in which men and women are more and more indispensable to one another. For this the new organization provides. Otherwise it is called the "Anti-Matrimonial League." This by no means prohibits marriage. In fact, it has been called the "Anti-Matrimonial League." But this was by persons ineligible to membership. Neither widows nor widowers are admitted.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Styles for Children: Dresses: Wraps Ladies Jackets: Cloaks: Silk: Waists.

Little girls' dresses are to a great extent miniatures of those of their elders, more decided color contrasts are noticeable however, which for little people is always advantageous. Gored or full skirts are optional, length remaining about the same; shoulders very fully trimmed with ruffles, cape effects in velvet, tulle or added basques, not unfrequently cut in points, or full straight round double pieces, below a velvet belt. Round, colored satin yokes closely shirred or of plain satin with rows of 'tutti lace' put on flat, and 'rivers' extending all around the shoulders are effective styles of trimming. In the way of outdoor garments, a long cloak having a fancy plaited shoulder cape and collar above, called a "Gretchen" is used for children from four to eight, and from four to twelve, "Reefers" also, with broad square collars, immense 'rivers' drooping sleeves and umbrella backs are very stylish, then the regular jacket comes for those who are older. The little ones are well provided with all sorts of dainty garments, among which is a nain-sook short dress, with a round yoke of hem-stitched tucks, ruffled with fine embroidery; the cuffs tucked, a duffed, and the skirt full with a deep hem. Price $1.00. A little day robe has the fullness gathered to the neck band, and falls in wide, full folds, with neck and sleeves edged by embroidery. Price 65 cents.

FOR BABY BOYS

from two to three years old, a suit of blue and white striped Galates, consisting of plaited skirt, jacket with rolling collar, turned back cuffs and white blouse waist, trimmed throughout with fine embroidery, is especially adapted to the interval between frocks and trousers. Prices from $2.65, $3.00 and $3.65. For boys from four to ten years of age, nothing is better suited for school or general wear, than a $5.00 "Norfolk" suit of fancy striped or mixed Cheviot. An illimitable variety is brought about in wash suits of Galates, Cheviot drills, ducks, Madras cloths or Bedford cords by stripes of all colors or sizes, used in combination with plain material, set off by braiding or buttons. This information is the result of a visit to Best's Lilliputian Bazaar in West 23rd St., a place devoted exclusively to the manufacture of children's wear and mothers who cannot visit it in person, will get the best idea of what children are wearing, by sending to them for a Spring catalogue.

GREEN, BLUE, TAN OR BLACK are the stylish shades for ladies' Spring jackets, which are of light weight, shorter than those of the past season, but quite as full at the back, with moire or beaded 'rivers' as large as they can possibly be made, and drooping sleeves. An intermixture of black is very popular, jet beads, black braid or black moire sleeves. Next to black, brown is the favorite color for Spring cloaks, which are quite full and short, having ing collars, upper capes or platings or lace and moire combined, and it may be safely asserted that black moire is the basis of true style in all departments of Fashion.

A FULL ROBING OF black Brussels net edged by narrow black satin ribbon with two or three rows above, in Louis Fuller style, trims a brown cloth cape very stylishly; a cluster of jet spangles, and one of jet pendant alternating, forming a dashing "all over" garniture for a black lace cape. Well shaped shoulders are now of no importance, as cape effects and bretelles will probably be used to such an extent that distinct outlines are simply impossible. Like and other independent waists are in extreme favor, made largely of changeable silk with a small figure, and skirts, straight around belts, or pointed waists are the three prominent styles.

VERONA CLARKE.

Our nerves are to our life, what the foundation is to a building—our life prop and support. When a foundation becomes weak, no sane man would use frozen earth to strengthen it, but it would be just as wise as to try to restore the nerves with morphia, alcohol, opium or other pernicious drugs. Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Tonicizer is the solid masonry of medicine, absolutely free from injurious drugs, a permanent restorer of nerve force and health. A symptom black with each bottle for advice and free treatment by the Doctor if desired. Ask Saur & Balesy, Napoleon Ohio.

Remnants of Famous Indian Tribes.

A meeting of the surviving members of the Narragansett tribe of Indians has just been called. There are about one hundred persons to answer. All the New England tribes who, with those of New York State, were the noblest of the red men on the continent, are fast dwindling away, and only a few pure-blooded braves and squaws yet survive. These illustrious nations in New England are the Penobscots of Maine, the Megahans and Pequods of Connecticut, and the Narragansetts of Rhode Island. The Penobscots retain their tribal organization intact at Indian Island, in the Penobscot river, in the woods, near Old Town; the Megahans at Mohegan's village, on the river bank of the Thames river, in the woods, three miles south of Norwich; the Pequods along the rough hills of North Stonington and Ledyard, and the shores of Lantern Hill, in southeastern Connecticut, and the Narragansetts at Charlestown, on the shore of the open ocean in Rhode Island.

A MUD VOLCANO.

The Natural Curiosity of the Island of Samatra.

There are many mud volcanoes scattered throughout the world, but there are few whose action is so regular and so characteristic as that of Dempo in the island of Samatra. This volcano, about ten thousand feet in height, was visited by Henry O. Forbes a few years ago, and is described in his "Wanderings in the Eastern Archipelago."

After a breathless climb he had gained the rim of the crater, from which he looked down some three hundred feet of precipitous rock to what seemed a white, polished mirror set in a central basin. From this basin was slowly rising a column of steam.

All was quiet and placid, and I sat down a little while to take in the details of a scene so novel, a vast circular basin half a mile in diameter, with rocky sides of sheer precipices, displaying at various places horizontal strata; at the bottom of this another smaller basin, some two hundred feet in diameter, filled to within about thirty or forty feet of its rim with a smoking substance, whose surface, like burnished silver, reflected the blue sky and every passing cloud.

We had sat thus for perhaps ten or twelve minutes, when I noted that the center of the white basin had become intensely black, and was scored with dark streaks. This area gradually increased. By steady scrutiny with my glass, for it was difficult to make out what was slowly and silently taking place, I at last discovered that the blackness marked the sides of a chasm that had formed in—what I now perceived the white burnished mirror to be—a lake of seething mud.

The blackness increased. The lake was being engulfed! A few minutes later a dull, sullen roar was heard, and I had just time to conjecture within myself whence it proceeded when the whole lake heaved, and rose in the air for some hundreds of feet, not as if violently ejected, but with calm, majestic upheaval, and then fell back on itself with an awesome roar, which reverberated round and round the vast cauldron, and echoed from rocky wall to rocky wall like the surge of an angry sea; and the immense volume of steam, let loose from its prison house, dissipated itself into the air.

The wave circles died away on the margin of the lake, which resumed its burnished face and again reflected the blue sky; and silence reigned again until the geyser had gathered force for another explosion.

The roar of the coming explosion was so awesome that my porters, who had never been to the top before, looked the picture of terror, and when the lake rose, they took to their heels and fled in a body.

Thus all day long the lake was swallowed up and vomited forth once in every fifteen or twenty minutes. That it was not always so quiet even as now the stones on the beach and the scoriae on the sides of the cone testified. Once in about every three years, the natives told me, the crops of coffee, bananas and rice were quite destroyed by "sulphur rain," which covered everything for miles round the crater.

A Deceased Message.
W. C. Winthrop, who succeeded H. W. Tallent in charge of the Chamberlain Investment company's properties upon the latter's resignation, died here about two months ago. He was one of the most popular young business men of the city. He lived and worked for his mother, whose only support and comfort he was. His devotion to her was complete. There was a secret sorrow in that home, and that it weighed heavily upon young Winthrop's mind and was uppermost in his thoughts in his dying hour has just been known.

Before the war his mother was united in marriage with Dr. W. W. Winthrop, a bright young physician. One child, William G., the dead son, was born to them. The war came on, and the young husband bade farewell to his family and went to the front. For some cause, at the close of the war, husband and wife separated. Dr. Winthrop went abroad and spent several years in Asia Minor. He then returned to the United States and acquired large property interests on the Indian river in Florida. Young Winthrop staid with his mother. He knew her secret, and his whole aim in life was to reunite them, and so he went about and spent several years in Asia Minor.
